ELSEVIER

Research Policy 29 (2000) 1197–1200

research policy

www.elsevier.nl/locate/econbase

Author Index Volume 29 (2000)

Aggarwal, A., Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
Anchordoguy, M., Japan's software industry: a failure of institutions? 391
Barlow, J., Innovation and learning in complex offshore construction projects 973
Benner, M. and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix. Research funding and norms in the academic system 291
Blumenthal, D., see Campbell, E.G. 303
Bonaccorsi, A. and P. Giuri, When shakeout doesn't occur The evolution of the turboprop engine industry 847
Bozeman, B., Technology transfer and public policy: a review of research and theory 627
Brady, T., see Davies, A. 931
Campbell, E.G., J.S. Weissman, N. Causino and D. Blumenthal, Data withholding in academic medicine: characteristics of faculty denied access to research results and biomaterials 303
Casas, R., R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225
Causino, N., see Campbell, E.G. 303
Da Motta e Albuquerque, E., Domestic patents and developing countries: arguments for their study and data from Brazil (1980–1995) 1047
Da Rosa Pires, A., see de Castro, E.A. 193
David, P.A. and B.H. Hall, Heart of darkness: modeling public–private funding interactions inside the R&D black box 1165
David, P.A., B.H. Hall and A.A. Toole, Is public R&D a complement or substitute for private R&D? A review of the econometric evidence 497
Davies, A. and T. Brady, Organisational capabilities and learning in complex product systems: towards repeatable solutions 931
Davies, A., see Geyer, A. 991
De Castro, E.A., C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193
Deeds, D.L., see McMillan, G.S. 1
De Gortari, R., see Casas, R. 225
Dohse, D., Technology policy and the regions — the case of the BioRegio contest 1111
Esteves, C., see de Castro, E.A. 193
Etzkowitz, H. and L. Leydesdorff, The dynamics of innovation: from national systems and Mode 2 to a Triple Helix of university–industry–government relations 109
Etzkowitz, H., A. Webster, C. Gebhardt and B.R.C. Terra, The future of the university and the university of the future: evolution of ivory tower to entrepreneurial paradigm 313

Elsevier Science B.V.

Firth, L. and D. Mellor, Learning and the new growth theories: policy dilemma 1157
Forbes, N. and D. Wield, Managing R&D in technology-followers 1095
Frenken, K., A complexity approach to innovation networks. The case of the aircraft industry (1909–1997) 257
Frenken, K. and L. Leydesdorff, Scaling trajectories in civil aircraft (1913–1997) 331
Gann, D.M. and A.J. Salter, Innovation in project-based, service-enhanced firms: the construction of complex products and systems 955
Gebhardt, C., see Etzkowitz, H. 313
Georghiou, L. and D. Roessner, Evaluating technology programs: tools and methods 657
Geroski, P.A., Models of technology diffusion 603
Geyer, A. and A. Davies, Managing project–system interfaces: case studies of railway projects in restructured UK and German markets 991
Giesecke, S., The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
Gingras, Y., see Godin, B. 273
Giuri, P., see Bonaccorsi, A. 847
Godin, B. and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273
Godoe, H., Innovation regimes, R&D and radical innovations in telecommunications 1033
Granstrand, O., The shift towards intellectual capitalism — the role of infocom technologies 1061
Grantham, C.E., see Nowak, M.J. 125
Griliches, Z., see Klette, T.J. 471
Gruber, H., The evolution of market structure in semiconductors: the role of product standards 725
Hagedoorn, J., A.N. Link and N.S. Vonortas, Research partnerships 567
Hall, B. and J. Van Reenen, How effective are fiscal incentives for R&D? A review of the evidence 449
Hall, B.H., see David, P.A. 497
Hall, B.H., see David, P.A. 1165
Harhoff, D., see Scherer, F.M. 559
Hobday, M., The project-based organisation: an ideal form for managing complex products and systems? 871
Jaffe, A.B., The U.S. patent system in transition: policy innovation and the innovation process 531
James, J., Trait-making for labour-intensive technology in Sub-Saharan Africa 757
Kash, D.E. and R.W. Rycoft, Patterns of innovating complex technologies: a framework for adaptive network strategies 819
Kenney, M., see von Burg, U. 1135
Kingston, W., Antibiotics, invention and innovation 679
Klette, T.J., J. Møen and Z. Griliches, Do subsidies to commercial R&D reduce market failures? Microeconometric evaluation studies 471
Kobayashi, S.-i., Applying audition systems from the performing arts to R&D funding mechanisms: quality control in collaboration among the academic, public, and private sectors in Japan 181
Kodama, F., see Letchumanan, R. 59
Langford, C.H. and M.W. Langford, The evolution of rules for access to megascience research environments viewed from Canadian experience 169

Langford, M.W., see Langford, C.H. 169
Lankhuizen, M., Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9
Lefebvre, H., see Menanteau, P. 375
Letchumanan, R. and F. Kodama, Reconciling the conflict between the 'pollution-haven' hypothesis and an emerging trajectory of international technology transfer 59
Leydesdorff, L., see Etzkowitz, H. 109
Leydesdorff, L., The triple helix: an evolutionary model of innovations 243
Leydesdorff, L., see Frenken, K. 331
Link, A.N., see Hagedoorn, J. 567
Luukkonen, T., Additionality of EU framework programmes 711
Mangematin, V., PhD job market: professional trajectories and incentives during the PhD 741
Martin, S. and J.T. Scott, The nature of innovation market failure and the design of public support for private innovation 437
McMillan, G.S., F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
Meeus, M.T.H. and L.A.G. Oerlemans, Firm behaviour and innovative performance. An empirical exploration of the selection–adaptation debate 41
Melin, G., Pragmatism and self-organization. Research collaboration on the individual level 31
Mellor, D., see Firth, L. 1157
Menanteau, P. and H. Lefebvre, Competing technologies and the diffusion of innovations: the emergence of energy-efficient lamps in the residential sector 375
Meyer, M., Does science push technology? Patents citing scientific literature 409
Møen, J., see Klette, T.J. 471
Morris, N., Vial bodies: conflicting interests in the move to new institutional relationships in biological medicines research and regulation 149
Narin, F., see McMillan, G.S. 1
Nightingale, P., The product–process–organisation relationship in complex development projects 913
Nowak, M.J. and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
Oerlemans, L.A.G., see Meeus, M.T.H. 41
Okubo, Y. and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81
Prencipe, A., Breadth and depth of technological capabilities in CoPS: the case of the aircraft engine control system 895
Rodrigues, C., see de Castro, E.A. 193
Roessner, D., see Georghiou, L. 657
Rycoft, R.W., see Kash, D.E. 819
Salter, A.J., see Gann, D.M. 955
Sandström, U., see Benner, M. 291
Santangelo, G.D., Corporate strategic technological partnerships in the European information and communications technology industry 1015
Santos, Ma.J., see Casas, R. 225
Scherer, F.M. and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559

Scott, J.T., see Martin, S. 437
Sedaitis, J., Technology transfer in transitional economies: a test of market, state and organizational models 135
Sjöberg, C., see Okubo, Y. 81
Sutz, J., The university–industry–government relations in Latin America 279
Tassey, G., Standardization in technology-based markets 587
Terra, B.R.C., see Etzkowitz, H. 313
Toole, A.A., see David, P.A. 497
Van Reenen, J., see Hall, B. 449
Von Burg, U. and M. Kenney, Venture capital and the birth of the local area networking industry 1135
Vonortas, N.S., see Hagedoorn, J. 567
Von Tunzelmann, N., see Wang, Q. 805
Walker, W., Entrapment in large technology systems: institutional commitment and power relations 833
Wang, Q. and N. von Tunzelmann, Complexity and the functions of the firm: breadth and depth 805
Webster, A., see Etzkowitz, H. 313
Weissman, J.S., see Campbell, E.G. 303
West, J., Institutions, information processing, and organization structure in research and development: evidence from the semiconductor industry 349
Wield, D., see Forbes, N. 1095
Wilts, A., Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767

ELSEVIER

Research Policy 29 (2000) 1201–1211

research policy

www.elsevier.nl/locate/econbase

Subject Index Volume 29 (2000)

Business

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
M. Lankhuizen, Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9
M.T.H. Meeus and L.A.G. Oerlemans, Firm behaviour and innovative performance. An empirical exploration of the selection–adaptation debate 41
R. Letchumanan and F. Kodama, Reconciling the conflict between the 'pollution-haven' hypothesis and an emerging trajectory of international technology transfer 59
Y. Okubo and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81
H. Etzkowitz and L. Leydesdorff, The dynamics of innovation: from National Systems and "Mode 2" to a Triple Helix of university–industry–government relations 109
M.J. Nowak and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
J. Sedaitis, Technology transfer in transitional economies: a test of market, state and organizational models 135
N. Morris, Vial bodies: conflicting interests in the move to new institutional relationships in biological medicines research and regulation 149
E.A. de Castro, C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193
S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
R. Casas, R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225
L. Leydesdorff, The triple helix: an evolutionary model of innovations 243
K. Frenken, A complexity approach to innovation networks. The case of the aircraft industry (1909–1997) 257
B. Godin and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273
M. Benner and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix: research funding and norms in the academic system 291
H. Etzkowitz, A. Webster, C. Gebhardt and B.R.C. Terra, The future of the university and the university of the future: evolution of ivory tower to entrepreneurial paradigm 313

Elsevier Science B.V.

K. Frenken and L. Leydesdorff, Scaling trajectories in civil aircraft (1913–1997) 331
J. West, Institutions, information processing, and organization structure in research and development: evidence from the semiconductor industry 349
P. Menanteau and H. Lefebvre, Competing technologies and the diffusion of innovations: the emergence of energy-efficient lamps in the residential sector 375
M. Anchordoguy, Japan's software industry: a failure of institutions? 391
M. Meyer, Does science push technology? Patents citing scientific literature 409
S. Martin and J.T. Scott, The nature of innovation market failure and the design of public support for private innovation 437
B. Hall and J. Van Reenen, How effective are fiscal incentives for R&D? A review of the evidence 449
T.J. Klette, J. Møen and Z. Griliches, Do subsidies to commercial R&D reduce market failures? Microeconometric evaluation studies 471
P.A. David, B.H. Hall and A.A. Toole, Is public R&D a complement or substitute for private R&D? A review of the econometric evidence 497
A.B. Jaffe, The U.S. patent system in transition: policy innovation and the innovation process 531
F.M. Scherer and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559
J. Hagedoorn, A.N. Link and N.S. Vonortas, Research partnerships 567
G. Tassey, Standardization in technology-based markets 587
P.A. Geroski, Models of technology diffusion 603
B. Bozeman, Technology transfer and public policy: a review of research and theory 627
L. Georghiou and D. Roessner, Evaluating technology programs: tools and methods 657
W. Kingston, Antibiotics, invention and innovation 679
T. Luukkonen, Additionality of EU framework programmes 711
H. Gruber, The evolution of market structure in semiconductors: the role of product standards 725
J. James, Trait-making for labour-intensive technology in Sub-Saharan Africa 757
A. Wilts, Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767
M. Hobday, H. Rush and J. Tidd, Innovation in complex products and system 793
Q. Wang and N. von Tunzelmann, Complexity and the functions of the firm: breadth and depth 805
D.E. Kash and R.W. Rycoft, Patterns of innovating complex technologies: a framework for adaptive network strategies 819
W. Walker, Entrapment in large technology systems: institutional commitment and power relations 833
A. Bonaccorsi and P. Giuri, When shakeout doesn't occur The evolution of the turboprop engine industry 847
M. Hobday, The project-based organisation: an ideal form for managing complex products and systems? 871
A. Prencipe, Breadth and depth of technological capabilities in CoPS: the case of the aircraft engine control system 895
P. Nightingale, The product–process–organisation relationship in complex development projects 913
A. Davies and T. Brady, Organisational capabilities and learning in complex product systems: towards repeatable solutions 931

D.M. Gann and A.J. Salter, Innovation in project-based, service-enhanced firms: the construction of complex products and systems 955
J. Barlow, Innovation and learning in complex offshore construction projects 973
A. Geyer and A. Davies, Managing project–system interfaces: case studies of railway projects in restructured UK and German markets 991
G.D. Santangelo, Corporate strategic technological partnerships in the European information and communications technology industry 1015
H. Godoe, Innovation regimes, R&D and radical innovations in telecommunications 1033
E. da Motta e Albuquerque, Domestic patents and developing countries: arguments for their study and data from Brazil (1980–1995) 1047
O. Granstrand, The shift towards intellectual capitalism — the role of infocom technologies 1061
A. Aggarwal, Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
N. Forbes and D. Wield, Managing R&D in technology-followers 1095
D. Dohse, Technology policy and the regions — the case of the BioRegio contest 1111
U. von Burg and M. Kenney, Venture capital and the birth of the local area networking industry 1135
L. Firth and D. Mellor, Learning and the new growth theories: policy dilemma 1157
P.A. David and B.H. Hall, Heart of darkness: modeling public–private funding interactions inside the R&D black box 1165

Government

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
R. Letchumanan and F. Kodama, Reconciling the conflict between the 'pollution-haven' hypothesis and an emerging trajectory of international technology transfer 59
H. Etzkowitz and L. Leydesdorff, The dynamics of innovation: from National Systems and "Mode 2" to a Triple Helix of university–industry–government relations 109
M.J. Nowak and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
J. Sedaitis, Technology transfer in transitional economies: a test of market, state and organizational models 135
N. Morris, Vial bodies: conflicting interests in the move to new institutional relationships in biological medicines research and regulation 149
C.H. Langford and M.W. Langford, The evolution of rules for access to megascience research environments viewed from Canadian experience 169
S.-i. Kobayashi, Applying audition systems from the performing arts to R&D funding mechanisms: quality control in collaboration among the academic, public, and private sectors in Japan 181
E.A. de Castro, C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193
S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
R. Casas, R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225

L. Leydesdorff, The triple helix: an evolutionary model of innovations 243
K. Frenken, A complexity approach to innovation networks. The case of the aircraft industry (1909–1997) 257
B. Godin and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273
M. Benner and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix: research funding and norms in the academic system 291
H. Etzkowitz, A. Webster, C. Gebhardt and B.R.C. Terra, The future of the university and the university of the future: evolution of ivory tower to entrepreneurial paradigm 313
S. Martin and J.T. Scott, The nature of innovation market failure and the design of public support for private innovation 437
B. Hall and J. Van Reenen, How effective are fiscal incentives for R&D? A review of the evidence 449
T.J. Klette, J. Møen and Z. Griliches, Do subsidies to commercial R&D reduce market failures? Microeconometric evaluation studies 471
P.A. David, B.H. Hall and A.A. Toole, Is public R&D a complement or substitute for private R&D? A review of the econometric evidence 497
A.B. Jaffe, The U.S. patent system in transition: policy innovation and the innovation process 531
F.M. Scherer and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559
J. Hagedoorn, A.N. Link and N.S. Vonortas, Research partnerships 567
G. Tassey, Standardization in technology-based markets 587
B. Bozeman, Technology transfer and public policy: a review of research and theory 627
L. Georghiou and D. Roessner, Evaluating technology programs: tools and methods 657
T. Luukkonen, Additionality of EU framework programmes 711
H. Gruber, The evolution of market structure in semiconductors: the role of product standards 725
A. Wilts, Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767
M. Hobday, H. Rush and J. Tidd, Innovation in complex products and system 793
W. Walker, Entrapment in large technology systems: institutional commitment and power
H. Godoe, Innovation regimes, R&D and radical innovations in telecommunications 1033
A. Aggarwal, Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
D. Dohse, Technology policy and the regions — the case of the BioRegio contest 1111
L. Firth and D. Mellor, Learning and the new growth theories: policy dilemma 1157
P.A. David and B.H. Hall, Heart of darkness: modeling public–private funding interactions inside the R&D black box 1165

Universities and Basic Research

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
G. Melin, Pragmatism and self-organization. Research collaboration on the individual level 31

Y. Okubo and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81
H. Etzkowitz and L. Leydesdorff, The dynamics of innovation: from National Systems and "Mode 2" to a Triple Helix of university–industry–government relations 109
M.J. Nowak and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
N. Morris, Vial bodies: conflicting interests in the move to new institutional relationships in biological medicines research and regulation 149
C.H. Langford and M.W. Langford, The evolution of rules for access to megascience research environments viewed from Canadian experience 169
S.-i. Kobayashi, Applying audition systems from the performing arts to R&D funding mechanisms: quality control in collaboration among the academic, public, and private sectors in Japan 181
E.A. de Castro, C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193
S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
R. Casas, R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225
L. Leydesdorff, The triple helix: an evolutionary model of innovations 243
B. Godin and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273
J. Sutz, The university–industry–government relations in Latin America 279
M. Benner and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix: research funding and norms in the academic system 291
E.G. Campbell, J.S. Weissman, N. Causino and D. Blumenthal, Data withholding in academic medicine: characteristics of faculty denied access to research results and biomaterials 303
H. Etzkowitz, A. Webster, C. Gebhardt and B.R.C. Terra, The future of the university and the university of the future: evolution of ivory tower to entrepreneurial paradigm 313
M. Meyer, Does science push technology? Patents citing scientific literature 409
B. Bozeman, Technology transfer and public policy: a review of research and theory 627
L. Georghiou and D. Roessner, Evaluating technology programs: tools and methods 657
W. Kingston, Antibiotics, invention and innovation 679
V. Mangematin, PhD job market: professional trajectories and incentives during the PhD 741
A. Wilts, Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767

Management and Planning

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
M.T.H. Meeus and L.A.G. Oerlemans, Firm behaviour and innovative performance. An empirical exploration of the selection–adaptation debate 41
R. Letchumanan and F. Kodama, Reconciling the conflict between the 'pollution-haven' hypothesis and an emerging trajectory of international technology transfer 59
Y. Okubo and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81

M.J. Nowak and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
J. Sedaitis, Technology transfer in transitional economies: a test of market, state and organizational models 135
N. Morris, Vial bodies: conflicting interests in the move to new institutional relationships in biological medicines research and regulation 149
C.H. Langford and M.W. Langford, The evolution of rules for access to megascience research environments viewed from Canadian experience 169
S.-i. Kobayashi, Applying audition systems from the performing arts to R&D funding mechanisms: quality control in collaboration among the academic, public, and private sectors in Japan 181
E.A. de Castro, C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193
S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
R. Casas, R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225
M. Benner and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix: research funding and norms in the academic system 291
E.G. Campbell, J.S. Weissman, N. Causino and D. Blumenthal, Data withholding in academic medicine: characteristics of faculty denied access to research results and biomaterials 303
H. Etzkowitz, A. Webster, C. Gebhardt and B.R.C. Terra, The future of the university and the university of the future: evolution of ivory tower to entrepreneurial paradigm 313
J. West, Institutions, information processing, and organization structure in research and development: evidence from the semiconductor industry 349
P. Menanteau and H. Lefebvre, Competing technologies and the diffusion of innovations: the emergence of energy-efficient lamps in the residential sector 375
M. Anchordoguy, Japan's software industry: a failure of institutions? 391
B. Hall and J. Van Reenen, How effective are fiscal incentives for R&D? A review of the evidence 449
T.J. Klette, J. Møen and Z. Griliches, Do subsidies to commercial R&D reduce market failures? Microeconometric evaluation studies 471
P.A. David, B.H. Hall and A.A. Toole, Is public R&D a complement or substitute for private R&D? A review of the econometric evidence 497
A.B. Jaffe, The U.S. patent system in transition: policy innovation and the innovation process 531
P.A. Geroski, Models of technology diffusion 603
W. Kingston, Antibiotics, invention and innovation 679
J. James, Trait-making for labour-intensive technology in Sub-Saharan Africa 757
A. Wilts, Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767
M. Hobday, H. Rush and J. Tidd, Innovation in complex products and system 793
Q. Wang and N. von Tunzelmann, Complexity and the functions of the firm: breadth and depth 805
D.E. Kash and R.W. Rycoft, Patterns of innovating complex technologies: a framework for adaptive network strategies 819

W. Walker, Entrapment in large technology systems: institutional commitment and power relations 833
A. Bonaccorsi and P. Giuri, When shakeout doesn't occur The evolution of the turboprop engine industry 847
M. Hobday, The project-based organisation: an ideal form for managing complex products and systems? 871
A. Prencipe, Breadth and depth of technological capabilities in CoPS: the case of the aircraft engine control system 895
P. Nightingale, The product–process–organisation relationship in complex development projects 913
A. Davies and T. Brady, Organisational capabilities and learning in complex product systems: towards repeatable solutions 931
D.M. Gann and A.J. Salter, Innovation in project-based, service-enhanced firms: the construction of complex products and systems 955
J. Barlow, Innovation and learning in complex offshore construction projects 973
A. Geyer and A. Davies, Managing project–system interfaces: case studies of railway projects in restructured UK and German markets 991
G.D. Santangelo, Corporate strategic technological partnerships in the European information and communications technology industry 1015
H. Godoe, Innovation regimes, R&D and radical innovations in telecommunications 1033
O. Granstrand, The shift towards intellectual capitalism — the role of infocom technologies 1061
A. Aggarwal, Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
N. Forbes and D. Wield, Managing R&D in technology-followers 1095
L. Firth and D. Mellor, Learning and the new growth theories: policy dilemma 1157

Measure and Evaluation

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
M. Lankhuizen, Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9
G. Melin, Pragmatism and self-organization. Research collaboration on the individual level 31
Y. Okubo and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81
K. Frenken, A complexity approach to innovation networks. The case of the aircraft industry (1909–1997) 257
B. Godin and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273
K. Frenken and L. Leydesdorff, Scaling trajectories in civil aircraft (1913–1997) 331
M. Meyer, Does science push technology? Patents citing scientific literature 409
B. Hall and J. Van Reenen, How effective are fiscal incentives for R&D? A review of the evidence 449
T.J. Klette, J. Møen and Z. Griliches, Do subsidies to commercial R&D reduce market failures? Microeconometric evaluation studies 471

P.A. David, B.H. Hall and A.A. Toole, Is public R&D a complement or substitute for private R&D? A review of the econometric evidence 497
F.M. Scherer and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559
L. Georghiou and D. Roessner, Evaluating technology programs: tools and methods 657
T. Luukkonen, Additionality of EU framework programmes 711
H. Gruber, The evolution of market structure in semiconductors: the role of product standards 725
V. Mangematin, PhD job market: professional trajectories and incentives during the PhD 741
H. Godoe, Innovation regimes, R&D and radical innovations in telecommunications 1033
E. da Motta e Albuquerque, Domestic patents and developing countries: arguments for their study and data from Brazil (1980–1995) 1047
A. Aggarwal, Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
D. Dohse, Technology policy and the regions — the case of the BioRegio contest 1111

Countries

Africa

J. James, Trait-making for labour-intensive technology in Sub-Saharan Africa 757

Brazil

E. da Motta e Albuquerque, Domestic patents and developing countries: arguments for their study and data from Brazil (1980–1995) 1047

Canada

C.H. Langford and M.W. Langford, The evolution of rules for access to megascience research environments viewed from Canadian experience 169
B. Godin and Y. Gingras, The place of universities in the system of knowledge production 273

Estonia

M. Lankhuizen, Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9

Europe

G.D. Santangelo, Corporate strategic technological partnerships in the European information and communications technology industry 1015

European Union

T. Luukkonen, Additionality of EU framework programmes 711

France

V. Mangematin, PhD job market: professional trajectories and incentives during the PhD 741

Germany

S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205
F.M. Scherer and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559
A. Wilts, Forms of research organisation and their responsiveness to external goal setting 767
A. Geyer and A. Davies, Managing project–system interfaces: case studies of railway projects in restructured UK and German markets 991
D. Dohse, Technology policy and the regions — the case of the BioRegio contest 1111

India

A. Aggarwal, Deregulation, technology imports and in-house R&D efforts: an analysis of the Indian experience 1081
N. Forbes and D. Wield, Managing R&D in technology-followers 1095

Japan

S.-i. Kobayashi, Applying audition systems from the performing arts to R&D funding mechanisms: quality control in collaboration among the academic, public, and private sectors in Japan 181
J. West, Institutions, information processing, and organization structure in research and development: evidence from the semiconductor industry 349
M. Anchordoguy, Japan's software industry: a failure of institutions? 391

Latin America

J. Sutz, The university–industry–government relations in Latin America 279

Latvia

M. Lankhuizen, Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9

Lithuania

M. Lankhuizen, Shifts in foreign trade, competitiveness and growth potential: from Baltics to 'Bal-techs'? 9

Mexico

R. Casas, R. de Gortari and Ma.J. Santos, The building of knowledge spaces in Mexico: a regional approach to networking 225

Netherlands

M.T.H. Meeus and L.A.G. Oerlemans, Firm behaviour and innovative performance. An empirical exploration of the selection–adaptation debate 41

Portugal

E.A. de Castro, C. Rodrigues, C. Esteves and A. da Rosa Pires, The triple helix model as a motor for the creative use of telematics 193

Russia

J. Sedaitis, Technology transfer in transitional economies: a test of market, state and organizational models 135

Sweden

G. Melin, Pragmatism and self-organization. Research collaboration on the individual level 31
Y. Okubo and C. Sjöberg, The changing pattern of industrial scientific research collaboration in Sweden 81
M. Benner and U. Sandström, Institutionalizing the triple helix: research funding and norms in the academic system 291

UK

W. Walker, Entrapment in large technology systems: institutional commitment and power relations 833
A. Geyer and A. Davies, Managing project–system interfaces: case studies of railway projects in restructured UK and German markets 991

USA

G.S. McMillan, F. Narin and D.L. Deeds, An analysis of the critical role of public science in innovation: the case of biotechnology 1
G. Melin, Pragmatism and self-organization. Research collaboration on the individual level 31
M.J. Nowak and C.E. Grantham, The virtual incubator: managing human capital in the software industry 125
S. Giesecke, The contrasting roles of government in the development of biotechnology industry in the US and Germany 205

E.G. Campbell, J.S. Weissman, N. Causino and D. Blumenthal, Data withholding in academic medicine: characteristics of faculty denied access to research results and biomaterials 303
J. West, Institutions, information processing, and organization structure in research and development: evidence from the semiconductor industry 349
A.B. Jaffe, The U.S. patent system in transition: policy innovation and the innovation process 531
F.M. Scherer and D. Harhoff, Technology policy for a world of skew-distributed outcomes 559
B. Bozeman, Technology transfer and public policy: a review of research and theory 627
U. von Burg and M. Kenney, Venture capital and the birth of the local area networking industry 1135